IMMERSE YOURSELF in college and city life with Pre-College Programs at Barnard! Each year, students from around the globe come to our campus to pursue their passions at the premiere women's college in the greatest city in the world. Students in our programs benefit from small enrichment courses taught by our dedicated faculty members. In addition to our dynamic courses, students are invited to participate in the city's rich cultural legacy and professional resources through a mix of museum visits, college tours, worksite visits, and trips to various attractions throughout the 5 boroughs. Our summer programs provide the opportunity for young women to learn, live, and grow while exploring their passions in a variety of fields alongside other bold and inquisitive young women.

SUMMER IN THE CITY (SITC)

One week or 4 weeks

JULY 7–JULY 12 | JULY 7–AUGUST 2

Students in the Summer in the City Program (SITC) get the full college experience. By taking intensive liberal arts courses, you are pushed to think and perform as an undergraduate student. Complete one or two classes depending on your program, choosing from courses such as The Exploration of Space, American Political Communication, Screenwriting, and many more. You will also learn more about life before, after, and during the undergraduate experience in workshops facilitated by Barnard College's offices of Admissions, Career Development, and Residential Life. Planned excursions will include museums, cultural centers, neighborhood food crawls, Broadway shows, sporting events, and you will still have plenty of free time to explore NYC.

ATHENA SUMMER INNOVATION INSTITUTE (ASII)

JUNE 23– JULY 5

The Athena Summer Innovation Institute is an intensive boot camp that provides young women with the practical skills and knowledge they need to develop new ideas that will make a difference in the world. Working in small teams, you will be given the tools to create a new venture — start-up businesses, non-profit organizations, or advocacy campaigns — that has the power to disrupt accepted ways of doing things and creates lasting change. Students will hone their leadership skills by attending workshops on topics ranging from marketing products to financial fluency, site visits to NYC startups, and sessions with Barnard speaking fellows to improve their storytelling abilities. The institute culminates in a final 'Pitchfest' where teams present their new venture to an esteemed panel of leaders, entrepreneurs, investors, and innovators.

YOUNG WOMEN'S LEADERSHIP INSTITUTE (YWLI)

JUNE 23– JULY 5; JULY 7– JULY 19

The Young Women's Leadership Institute embraces the complex relationship between gender and leadership as its focus. As an YWLI participant you should be curious, passionate, and ready to develop your skills as a leader. The Institute will allow you to develop trailblazing qualities and push you in new directions as you explore leadership through a feminist lens. Students are given the opportunity to tackle a problem in the world and work in small groups to design and execute a solution using the skills they've gained in courses and workshops. You will also have the opportunity to meet with women in workplaces throughout the city to learn about the skills and tenacity needed to stand out in today's workforce.

DANCE IN THE CITY (DITC)

JULY 7– JULY 19

This program gives students the opportunity to learn about dance and performance from four different perspectives: as a scholar, as a dancer, as a choreographer, and as an audience member. You will learn to critically analyze, write and discuss various forms of dance while engaging with New York City artists, institutions and live performances. Students will use the skills they developed in technique classes at the Ailey Extension at The Joan Weill Center for Dance to choreograph a collaborative work with classmates and perform their work at the Festival of the Arts

SUMMER STEM SEMINAR (SCUBED)

JUNE 23– JULY 5

S-Cubed is designed for fearless and inquisitive young women who are looking to develop their STEM skills in both lecture and laboratory settings. Using the city as an extension of the classroom, you will be able to explore a discipline of your choice by visiting local exhibitions, museums, job sites and liaising with city organizations. This program is designed to help students gain a better sense of the skills needed to excel in a STEM program at a top tier college.
